Trivia BBQ & Karaoke!

Nothing brings a community together quite like good food and even better company.

Pasta To-Go Night was a hit at @blakeatberkeley ! We loved sharing a delicious dinner, seeing so many smiling faces, and creating those simple moments that make a community feel a little more like home. Here's to good neighbors, full plates, and more nights together.

What They're Saying

"The staff, Nila, Cesar and Ruby, are warm, enthusiastic about the place, and very helpful. There is a cleaning staff that is kind and cheerful.

I have only lived here a short time, but I am so happy I am here. There is light in my apartment all day long! There is a gym I love using, and there are four outdoor spaces within the property which are all beautifully maintained.

The atmosphere of neighbors is friendly and yet private, and the building is very secure.

Sometimes I can hear distant sounds of neighbors, but it is not very loud and it feels cozy, like I live in a house in a little village. All in all, it is a lovely place to live." - JG

Local Feature

Berkeley Bowl

This month, we're spotlighting an absolute neighborhood legend: Berkeley Bowl! A true local institution, Berkeley Bowl is renowned across the Bay Area for its massive selection of fresh produce, specialty international foods, bulk items, and gourmet ready-to-eat options.

It's the ultimate destination whether you're stocking up for the week or looking for unique, hard-to-find ingredients. Plus, their Berkeley Bowl West location frequently hosts rotating local pop-up food vendors!

Live Well

Día de los Muertos

Día de los Muertos Celebrations Around the East Bay. Autumn in the Bay Area brings rich cultural traditions and vibrant community gatherings! Right here in town, Cal Performances at UC Berkeley is hosting a special Día de los Muertos performance with Mariachi Herencia de México at Zellerbach Hall on October 23rd. It is a wonderful way to experience traditional music fused with Latin American rhythms right on campus. For a classic Bay Area experience, take a quick BART ride or short drive over to the 31st Annual Oakland Día de los Muertos Festival in Fruitvale Village on November 1st. Recognized as a national legacy, this massive outdoor festival features world-class live music, artisan markets, delicious traditional foods, and stunning community altar displays

Be A Good Neighbor

Resident Safety

Looking Out for One Another

At our community, nothing is more important than your peace of mind and safety—and keeping our home secure is a true team effort! We recently saw a wonderful example of resident awareness when a thoughtful neighbor noticed a door propped open, immediately removed the item, and made sure the door was securely closed. Small, proactive actions like this make all the difference. When we stay alert, avoid leaving valuables in our vehicles, and report any unusual activity to the leasing office, we protect our shared home together. Thank you to everyone who continues to keep an extra set of eyes on our community. Let's keep looking out for one another, securing our spaces, and working together to maintain a safe, warm, and welcoming neighborhood for everyone!
